A WORD OF ADVICE AND WARNING TO MERCHANTS REGARDING CHECKS . . . .

Members of the Ute Indian Tribe Wednesday received another per capita payment from the Treasury of the United States, which was dispursed through the Uintah-Ouray Indian agency.

A very important announcement has been made through the officers of the tribe and the agency, which concerns those who might cash the individual checks payed to minors who are unable to write their names as an endorsement. Any child, regardless of age, who can't write his name, must place his thumb print on the back of the check where endorsement is specified, and furthermore, two adults must witness the thumb mark by signing their names under the child's mark.

This warning is equally important to the person who owns the check, and the one who cashes it. There is a pretty stiff penalty for anyone caught forging other thumb prints, or those who would try to cash the child's check who had violated the rule.

ORCHIDS TO THE COMMERCIAL CLUB. . . who, it is reported, voted recently to finance the installation of air conditions in the Roosevelt LDS Hospital. It's a fine gesture on the part of the officers and directors who recognized a need and rallied to the cause.

DUCHESNE COUNTY WELCOMES a new school superintendent this week as Mr. and Mrs. Rowan Stutz and their family moved into the city of Duchesne to make their home. Officially on August 1, the newly appointed superintendent assumed the position left vacant by the resignation of Dean C. Christensen. . . In saying goodbye to a fine school administrator, who has done much to raise the standards of education in Duchesne County, the people extend a hearty welcome to Supt. Stutz and his family, and wish them well in their new field.

PROMISE OF A BETTER COUNTY FAIR was almost assured Monday night as members of the board and various committees met to make reports, receive instructions, develop new ideas and unite more closely for a bigger and better Duchesne County Fair on Sept. 2, 3 and 4. It's your county fair, and only by sending in exhibits, and aiding where you can, will it be successful.

Aug. 20 Deadline Set For G.I.'s To Start Training

Post-Korea veterans released from military service before Aug. 20, 1952, have until Aug. 20, 1954, to take advantage of enrollment under the Korean G.I. Bill training.

The veterans, if they want to benefit from the G. I. schooling, are those who were discharged or separated from service before Aug. 20, 1952. This applies to those who have not yet taken advantage of the G. I. training.

The problem facing schoolgoing veterans is that few summer schools will be in session on Aug. 20 deadline date, they explained.

Once a veteran has decided to train under the Korean G.I. Bill, he must choose the school and course he wants. He must then make certain that the course is G. I.-approved.

To be eligible for training under the Korean G. I. Bill, a veteran must meet all three of these requirements:

1. He must have been separated from active service under conditions other than dishonorable.

2. He must have been on active duty in the armed forces any place in the world—not necessarily in Korea — after June 27, 1950.

3. He must have had at least 90 days of active service in the armed forces unless he was discharged sooner because of an actual service - connected disability.

FREEZE FRUITS FOR HOMEMADE JELLIES

Time was when any housewife who made her own jellies and jams had to spend hot summer days over steaming preserving kettles to make use of fruit when it was ready. When the supply of fruit was too heavy, she sometimes put up juices to convert to jelly later.

But a much easier arrangement is possible with a home freezer. For jelly-making fruits may be frozen without sugar. The freezing and thawing softens the fruit, releases the juice and also causes the fruit color to dissolve in the juice. Then it's not necessary to heat juicy berries to extract juice. They can simply be crushed or pressed. Many other frozen fruits need only the minimum of heating to extract juices. Generally, pectin needs to be added to fruit juice that has not been heated to make sure that it "jells."

JUNIOR HIGH BREAKFASTS

A study by the Utah Experiment Station of breakfasts of children in two junior high schools confirms the findings of other state studies that young people at this age, who have high nutritional needs, often fail to get adequate breakfasts, and lacks are not made up at other meals of the day. The study also agrees with other studies that boys generally have better diets than girls.

A good breakfast should contain milk, vitamin C-rich foods such as citrus or tomato juice, egg or other high-quality protein food, and cereal or bread, the Station nutritionists say. They found out that too many of these children fell short on many of these foods and thus lacked fortification against poor daily diets.

Milk was the food that contributed most protein to these children's breakfasts. Even so, only two groups of boys had the recommended full cup of milk for breakfast each day of the week.

Eggs were eaten most of any main dish for breakfast. Girls averaged two to three eggs and boys four to five eggs a week. About 40 per cent of the children had bacon for breakfast once during the week. Less than 19 per cent had such meat as ham, sausage or pork.

Boys ate twice as much cereal for breakfast as girls, and whole-wheat cereals were used more than refined cereals. About 14 per cent of the children had no breakfast cereals. Bread in some form was the food most often eaten for breakfast. Boys ate more than girls. White bread was used more than whole wheat.

Though vitamin C is needed daily, and citrus fruits or tomato juice for breakfast has proved a good way to make sure of it, less than 12 per cent of the children had such fruit daily. The average was two to five servings a week.

Lynn Ross Gives Calf To UBIC As Fund Raiser

Someone is going to win a white faced calf during the UBIC that was donated by Lynn Ross, of Arcadia, and will be given away Friday night during the dance at the tennis court.

A year ago Mr. Ross won a Necchi Sewing machine and immediately upon being notified of his luck, came back with the offer of giving a calf to the UBIC for 1954 as an aid in financing the convention.

The following comment appeared in the "Editorial Viewpoint" column on August 13, 1953 concerning the proposition of Mr. Ross.

"Lynn Ross, Arcadia, who won the Necchi Sewing machine at the UBIC has offered a calf to the 1954 committee and issues a challenge to other winners to make a contribution of some product, or cash that has one-half the retail value of the prize they won. . . Might be an idea to help finance the coming UBIC's."

It was a challenge in 1953 and is still a challenge issued by Mr. Ross, who suggests the winner of the calf contribute half its value in some form or another.
